PARKLAWN HEALTH LIBRARY SYSTEM'S WEB SITE

<http://library.psc.gov>

Access the Internet address above and you will arrive at the Parklawn Health Library System's interactive web site. Through this site, we offer desktop access to the following library resources and services:

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| 1. Parklawn Health Library Bulletin | 4. Topical Bibliographies |
| 2. Online Catalog | 5. Topical List of Select Internet Sites |
| 3. Current Awareness Service | 6. Electronic Health News |

In addition to the services listed above, we also provide the following services to our primary clients (ACF, AoA, AHRQ, HHS Regional Offices, HRSA, IHS, NCHS, NIDA, NIMH, OPHS, OS, PSC, and SAMHSA):

1. Forms to request literature searches and interlibrary loans.
2. Electronic Reference Library (ERL) Database Searches - desktop access to a variety of SilverPlatter databases such as Medline, PsycINFO, Sociological Abstracts, Wilson Business Abstracts, EconLit, and Peterson's College Database.

Our goal is to provide you with a web site that meets your research needs. We encourage your feedback to assist us in achieving this goal. The library's email address is refdesk@psc.gov

IMMUNIZATION

Immunization is a process initiated to protect the body against disease. It is one of the best preventive measures used to protect against many contagious diseases. NCHS has published information on the benefits of immunization.

ORGAN DONATION

Medical advances now enable more than 22,000 Americans to receive organ transplants that save or enhance their lives. However, not enough organs are available for everyone who needs them. As a result, 5,500 people die each year while waiting for organs. DHHS is committed to creating a donation friendly America. The Division of Organ Transplantation, HRSA has the principal responsibility for the national coordination of organ donation activities. Through special initiatives, it learns more about what works to increase donation.

PHYSICIANS AND COMPUTERS

Office computers have become a necessity to physicians for networking with peers, communicating with patients, and accessing patient's medical histories. AHRQ has recently funded a study that confirms the importance of computers in the daily work of medical professionals.

THE STIGMA OF MENTAL ILLNESS

Despite recent advances in the treatment of the mentally ill, their full acceptance into society is still hindered by negative attitudes and misconceptions that lead to stigma. Stigma refers to any attitude, trait or disorder that marks an individual as being unacceptably different from the norm. Stigma is associated with decreased employment, housing, education opportunities, and negative community acceptance. In addition, stigma may also have a negative impact on the individual's view of himself or herself resulting in a loss of self-esteem, diminished self-efficacy, and increased reluctance to participate in social interactions. NIMH is currently funding research on the stigma associated with depression.

SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT IN PRISON

More than two million individuals (0.7% of the U.S. population) are incarcerated in county, state and federal correctional facilities. It is estimated that 51% of the incoming prison population is dependent on some illegal substance. Substance abuse treatment programs in prisons have been shown to be extremely effective in insuring that the inmates return to the community free of drug problems. Treated inmates were 73 % less likely to be re-arrested than untreated inmates. In addition, only 20.5 % of treated inmates were likely to use drugs within the first six months in the community compared to 36.7% of those who were untreated. SAMHSA is working to insure that quality drug treatment programs are available in all prisoners for all substance dependent prisoners.
